Terms of Admission.

Candidates for admission to the Freshman Class, must sustain an examination on Cæsar, Virgil, the Greek Reader, parts I and II., Adams' Latin Grammar, Sophocles' Greek Grammar, English Grammar, Ancient and Modern Geography, Arithmetic, and Algebra as far as through Simple Equations.

A candidate for an advanced standing, in addition to the above studies, is examined in the various branches, to which the class he proposes to enter, has attended.

Satisfactory testimonials of good moral character are required and those coming from other Institutions must bring certificates of regular and honorable dismissal.

An accurate and thorough acquaintance with the studies required for admission is indispensable, in order to receive the full advantage of the college course.

It is found from experience, that students imperfectly prepared for the class they enter, are embarrassed in their future progress, and are seldom able to repair the want of solid preparatory study.

German.

SECOND TERM.

Revision of the whole course.
Plautus, or Terence and Latin Composition.
The Antigone, or The Electra of Sophocles.

German, Hebrew, Botany, Zoology, Anatomy and Physiology, being optional studies, are attended to by the members of any class having the necessary knowledge and leisure.

Preparatory Department.

The course of instruction in the Preparatory Department embraces a solid and thorough English Education, whilst those who desire to prepare for business, or for college, have every advantage for the acquisition of the elements of Mathematics and of the Latin, Greek and German languages.

For those who propose receiving a regular Collegiate Education, the course of instruction contemplates a period of three years, but the student is taken through in a longer or shorter period, according to his attainments, abilities and application.

The following includes the list of studies:

Reading, Writing, Orthography and the definition of words, English Grammar, (Parker's,) Arithmetic, oral and written, (Emerson's II. and III. parts,) Book-keeping, (Marsh's,) Modern Geography, (Morse's,) Ancient Geography, (Mitchell's,) History of the United States and Great Britain, (Goodrich's Series,) Algebra, (Loomis',) Composition and Declamation, Watts on the Mind, Latin and Greek Grammar, (Adams' and Sophocles',) Latin and Greek Reader, (Jacobs' and Owen's,) Sophocles' Greek Lessons, Cæsar, Nepos, Virgil and Sallust.

Throughout the whole course the students are required to attend to English Grammar, and particular attention is paid to Orthoepy and the use of grammatical language in common conversation.

Students sufficiently advanced in this department are permitted to attend recitations with the College classes in any of the branches they require, such as Chemistry, Geometry, Surveying, Mensuration, Rhetoric, etc., for which no additional charge is made. The students are provided with rooms in the College Building. The tuition is the same as in the College Department. Terms and vacations are also the same.

Instruction and Supervision.

THE instruction is given entirely by the Professors, who have been engaged for some years in their respective departments. Lectures are also occasionally delivered by the Professors.

Tutors are not employed in the Collegiate Department.

The discipline of the Institution is, as nearly as possible, parental. One of the Professors, under whose immediate supervision the building is placed, with the other officers, exercises a constant guardianship over the whole establishment, so that parents from a distance have all the security they may desire for the proper government of their children.

Rhetorical Exercises.

The students attend to regular exercises in composition and declamation before some one of the instructors. The Senior and Junior classes have a weekly discussion before the President of the Institution.

The German Language.

A new professorship having been established in the College, by the Synod of Pennsylvania, designed to furnish the students with facilities for acquiring a knowledge of the German language and its literature, instructions are now regularly given in this department. Those who commence the study of this language in the primary class, use Eichhorn's Practical German Grammar. The middle class has hitherto read Adler's German Reader. Heyse's German Grammar is employed in instructing the advanced class, which is principally exercised in translating from the English into German, and in the use of the German conversational language. Written exercises are prepared by the students during the whole course, and at all the recitations of the classes opportunities are afforded for acquiring a familiarity with the German as a spoken language.

A German Literary Society exists in the College, the exercises of which, (Composition, Debates, Declamation, &c.,) resemble those of the two English Societies; the proceedings at all the regular meetings are, however, conducted in the German language.

Literary Societies.

There are two Literary Societies connected with the College, the Philomathæan and the Phrenakosmian, which exert a favorable influence in the improvement of the members. Their Halls occupy the two wings on the fourth story of the College edifice, and are furnished in a beautiful and tasteful manner. They hold their meetings every Wednesday afternoon.

Linnæan Society.

The object of this Association is to promote among its members a love of nature, and an admiration for the works of God, by cultivating the study of the various branches of Natural Science, and an acquaintance with animated nature, by making collections of specimens in these departments, as also in that of Antiquities, natural and artificial curiosities, and the like. A Hall has been erected for the reception of the interesting and valuable collection of minerals, shells, fossils, birds, quadrupeds, reptiles, insects, coins, paintings, engravings, medals, etc., secured by the industry of the members, and the liberality of friends.

Libraries and Apparatus.

The College Library, to which all the students have free access, contains many valuable works. The libraries of the two Literary Societies also comprise a large number of well selected and standard volumes, which are regularly increased by annual appropriation for that purpose. These libraries are accessible to the members of the Societies, upon compliance with such laws as the Societies respectively enact.

The College Library contains.....	3400	vols.
The Phrenakosmian "	3100	"
The Philomathæan "	3000	"
The Linnæan "	100	"
The Education Society "	250	"
The German Society "	200	"
Total number of volumes, ...	10050

Examinations.

There are two public examinations during the college year. A faithful record of the delinquencies of every student, of the degree of his attainment in scholarship, of his conduct and attendance, is kept; a copy of which record is transmitted to parents or guardians at the close of each term.

The final examination of the Senior Class occurs five weeks before commencement.

If a student be absent for some time from the Institution, he must sustain an examination before the Faculty, upon the studies to which his class has been attending during his absence.

Religious Exercises.

Prayers are offered in the College Chapel every morning and evening, with the reading of the Scriptures, one of the Faculty officiating, and all the students are required to be present.

The students are also required to attend public worship on the Sabbath, in the College Church, unless they bring a written request from their parents or guardians, specifying the particular congregation with which they wish to worship.

They are also required to attend a Biblical recitation on Sabbath afternoon, conducted by one of the officers of the Institution.

The expenses of the College each session, exclusive of Books, Clothes, Furniture, and Traveling Expenses, are as follows, viz:

Situation, College Edifice, etc.

Gettysburg is in sight of the South Mountain, a branch of the Blue Ridge, in one of the most healthful districts of Pennsylvania. It is distant from Philadelphia one hundred and twenty miles; from Pittsburg one hundred and eighty; from Baltimore fifty-two; from Frederick thirty-four; from Hagerstown thirty-four; from Chambersburg twenty-five; from Harrisburg thirty-five; with all of which places the communication is frequent and easy; so that it offers peculiar facilities to persons coming from the east or west, the south, or the interior of the State. These facilities will be still greater on the completion of the railroad which is now in course of construction from Hanover to this place.

The College edifice is a chaste specimen of the Doric order of architecture, consisting of a centre building and two wings, with end projections. The whole length is one hundred and fifty feet. The building is four stories high, with blocking course two feet and a half high, resting upon a heavy cornice around the entire building. On the centre is placed an octagonal cupola, eighteen feet and a half in diameter, and twenty-four feet high, with an observatory on its top. The entire front of the centre building (forty-six feet) is occupied by a portico, consisting of four fluted columns, four feet in diameter at their bases, and twenty-two feet and a half high, resting on abutments brought up to a level with the floor of the second story. On these columns rests an appropriate entablature, together with the roof, cornice and blocking course of the centre building. The portico projects fourteen feet from the centre building, and is made accessible on the outside by a flight of steps equal in width to its whole front. The edifice is composed of brick, and the whole exterior is painted white. The building—besides a hall of eleven feet width from front to rear, in the centre building, on the second floor, and corridors on every floor, the entire length of the building—contains seventy-five apartments or rooms, fifty-four of which are designed for the use of students. The remainder are a College Hall (forty-two by twenty-two feet) and a Library of the same size, two rooms for the Literary Societies, each forty-three by nineteen, on the fourth story, six recitation rooms, Refectory, together with the necessary apartments for the Steward and family. The building on the west is the Linnæan Hall, the upper story of which is devoted to the Museum, the lower, to the recitation rooms of the Preparatory Department.

Terms and Vacations.

The College year is divided into two terms or sessions. There are two vacations in the year, commencing on the third Thursday of April and September, each of six weeks continuance. The Spring and Fall vacations having been extended, the usual recess at Christmas, which has been attended with much loss of time and other inconveniences, is dispensed with. It is highly important that students be punctual in entering upon their duties at the commencement of each term, since an absence of a few days, at a time when a new branch of study is commenced, seldom fails to embarrass the whole course, and in some cases it is impossible to make up the loss.

Second Degree.

The second degree in the Arts is conferred at the end of three years, without any additional fee, on such graduates as have been engaged in literary or professional study, and have sustained a good moral character.

Public Exercises.

The Annual commencement takes place on the third Thursday of September. The Baccalaureate Discourse is pronounced the Sunday preceding by the President of the Institution. The Annual meeting of the Alumni is held on Wednesday evening, and an address delivered by one of its members. The duty this year devolves upon EDWARD MCPHERSON, ESQ., A. M., of Gettysburg. On Wednesday the annual addresses before the Philomathæan and Phrenakosmian Societies, will be delivered by SAMUEL W. BLACK, ESQ., of Pittsburg, Pa., and Hon. JEREMIAH S. BLACK, LL. D., of Somerset, Pa.

OF THE

Medical Department of Pennsylvania College,

FOR THE SESSION OF 1855—56.

In presenting the Annual Catalogue of the students in attendance upon the Medical Department of Pennsylvania College for the session of 1855–56, the Faculty avail themselves of the opportunity to congratulate the Alumni and friends of the School upon its present condition and future prospects.

The session just terminated has demonstrated, that the policy of the School, and the course of instruction which has been pursued for the last few years, have been such as to meet the approbation of the profession. In proof of this assertion we may confidently appeal to the number of its students, and to the expressions of satisfaction which we continue to receive from those who have obtained its diploma.
